

Do It with Class

Class is respect for others. It is deep and genuine respect for every human being, regardless of his status in life.

Class is having manners. It is always saying "Thank you" and "Please". It is complimenting people for any and every task that was well done.

Class is treating every other person as you want them to treat you in a similar situation.

Class never makes excuses for one's shortcomings, but it always helps the other person to bounce back from their mistakes.

Class never brags or boasts about one's accomplishments, and never tears down or diminishes the achievements of another person.

Class does not depend on money, status, or ancestry. The wealthy aristocrat may not even know the meaning of the word, yet the poorest man in town may radiate class in everything he does.

If you have class everyone will know it and you will have self-respect. If you are without class, good luck, because no matter what you accomplish, it will never have meaning.

People are always blaming their circumstances for what they are. I don't believe in circumstances. The people who make it in this world are the people who get up and look for the circumstances they want, and, if they can't find them...They Make Them.

- George Bernard Shaw
